How to Read Water - The Natural Navigator

In circumstances such as these, Tristan Gooley would surely be the ultimate travel companion. Gooley is an expert in natural navigation - that is, finding your way by reading clues in the environment. The only living person to have both flown solo and sailed single-handed across the Atlantic, he teaches people how to use the sun, moon, stars and other facets of the natural world to work out direction, and increase their appreciation of their surroundings.
